

Persona- Inexperienced Player

- Most likely college-age or older
- Wanting to play TRPGs
- Lacks people to show them the ropes of how to play
- The learning curve of these kinds of games tend to be fairly steep at first.
- Official rule books are easy to find, but are often cumbersome and confusing to brand-new players.
- More experienced players usually have a better knowledge of what is more necessary and are more able to tailor a game to be the most fun.
- Without someone more experienced to play with, they may become frustrated and give up altogether.
-